Many might find it hard to believe that at one time in our state's history, white-tailed deer were non-existent. Nowadays, deer can be found in every county in Ohio, and in many habitats including backyards. Homeowners, landscape-enthusiasts, and gardeners are often faced with the task of protecting their plants from deer.

Join us to discuss Ohio's largest herbivore – its life history, biology, and the strategies homeowners can take to lessen and prevent deer damage.

REGISTRATION:

Call 330-533-5538 to register, mail to 490 S. Broad St. Canfield, OH 44406, or drop off OSU Extension.
