

The final T-shape design for the AEV that would be implemented within the experiment. This design allowed for a much more lightweight and stronger build which would assist the AEV greatly in reducing the energy consumed by the AEV.